

HOARDING DISORDER

Research & Ethics Related to Treatment

The treatment of hoarding disorder is an ethically complex endeavour for any treatment professional. Join us for this two-day conference that will provide participants with treatment skills and tools from one of Canada's leading researchers Dr. Karen Rowa. Hear the unique viewpoint of bioethics lawyer Mark Handelman discuss The Health Care Consent Act & Substitute Decision-Making Act as they relate to hoarding disorder. Attendees will hear from a community panel of local service providers discuss their distinctive roles in treatment AND the privilege of listening to an individual with lived experience share her knowledge and perspective on hoarding disorder.
